This play about Thomas Merton written by Teresa Weed and produced by the Still Point Theatre Collective of Chicago begins on a weekend in New York when Merton met with Zen scholar D.T. Suzuki. It then weaves together the poetry and prose of his public and private lives, his spiritual development and his advocacy for peace and justice. This performance will benefit the work of Pax Christi Metro New York. Consider it a New Year's gift to yourself, your friends and family, as well as to PCMNY.

Cost: $30 for PCMNY Supporters and Patrons of the Iona Spirituality Institute; $35 all others
